LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

EDITOR NEWS-BULLETIN:

Dear Sir—Question arises "As to why parents of Mokena and vicinity are sending their children to Chicago and Joliet High schools when Mokena boasts a High school?"

Parents who can ill afford to be sending their children to High schools in outside places.

What is the reason?
The real question is: "Has Mokena a standard, fully equipped, complete course, recognized High school?"

Do pupils taking two years at Mokena High school receive recognition when entering Chicago or Joliet High schools, or do they have to make up back studies?

Should Mokena High school receive the support of the public?

Do students get value received for time spent at Mokena High school?

How many years does your child lose at the Mokena school? Is the School Board efficient? Is the School Board extravagant?

Why should it be necessary to discharge a janitor receiving $40.00 a month, and replacing him by one at $50.00 a month, just because the instructor objected?

Why pay $1.62 per hour for teaching eleven pupils? (Sept. 12th to 30th—18 days school, 6 hours per day, 108 hours, at $175.00.)

Who is who? School Board or instructor?

Who has control of the school district?

Who is paying this extravagance?

Why the hot lunches? Camouflage, or subterfuge for free meals?

Where does the School Board receive authority to pay the board bills, or deficit in the hot lunches?

Why is it necessary to employ teachers to the number of four to teach 11 pupils in the first room, 17 in the second room, 28 in the third room, and 40 in the fourth room?

What salaries are these four instructors receiving, and from what source does the money come from to pay the salaries?

Would the School Board be as extravagant in a business of their own?

Why talk of putting in a four-year High School when a Life Pension would be appropriate?

Why is it, That it always requires outside brains or newcomers to run the affairs of the village?

Let us hear from the Public on these questions.

A KRITICK.

Western Newspaper Union Manager Visits News-Bulletin Office

The editor of the News-Bulletin had the pleasure of entertaining Mr. A. E. Baker, manager of the Western Newspaper Union office of Chicago, last Thursday. Mr. Baker is the head of one of the largest newspaper enterprises in the country. The News-Bulletin ready-print service is received from Mr. Baker's office each week. We were very glad indeed to have Mr. Baker with us, and hope to have the pleasure of entertaining him again in the near future.

Many thoughts of a different nature fill our minds and hearts in autumn. It is the joyful harvest season. The golden corn and other grain is gathered into the granary. Fruit and vegetables are stored for the winter. What a bountiful harvest, is it not? Surely we should not forget the Giver of all good gifts, but thank Him for all His goodness. Ponder just for a moment how wonderfully everything is made, how everything grows in its splendor, and you will and must admit: There is an almighty God.

The harvest season reminds you of your life's harvest. What have you sown, what are you planting now? What a man sows that shall he also reap. Whoever sows wind, will reap a whirlwind. Beware that yours is not a harvest of wasted years. Make the most of your time. In the fall of the year you find some autumn trees without fruit. Such a tree is a grievous loss to the owner and a failure in itself. Such a tree is of no use, yet it cumbereth the ground; it is fuel for the fire. May our life not be like unto that tree. Watch the tiny ant or the little squirrel in the autumn; they are busy preparing for a long winter. Learn from them to work in the spring, summer and autumn of your life, that you will not suffer want in the dreary days of winter.

In these days the leaves are falling from the trees; soon a biting frost will come along and kill all vegetation. In unmistakable language that teaches us the frailty, the instability, the perishableness of all earthly things. "For all flesh is as the grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth and the flower thereof falleth away; but the Word of the Lord endureth forever. And this is the Word which by the Gospel is preached unto you," says Peter. No season teaches the truthfulness of this statement better than fall. Just like the short-lived grass and its fast-fading flower, so is man; he finally withers and dies. There are no "Immortals" among the sons of clay. One of the best poets sighed in the prime of his life: "My days are in the yellow leaf; the flowers and fruits of love are gone; the worm, the canker and the grief are mine alone." But is there nothing in this world of universal death and decay that can satisfy the longing for immortality which God Himself has planted in the heart of man? O, wanderer to the tomb, there is. "The Word of the Lord endureth forever." In the Gospel we hear of the immortality that Christ Jesus has brought to life. He has conquered death. In the fall of the year when you see everything around you in nature dying, you are forced to think of your own end. But when death lays his frosty, cold and icy hand upon

News-Bulletin Gets Many Subscriptions

The $1.00 per year subscription campaign which the News-Bulletin has been conducting the past three months, came to a close October 1st. The results have been very gratifying indeed. A large number of new and renewal subscriptions were added to the list. Many subscribers took advantage of this generous offer, and new subscriptions were entered for subscribers in various parts of the State, and some even as far away as California.

The News-Bulletin is a constructive home paper, and that this is a fact is attested by its hundreds of loyal subscribers.

Of course, there are a few cynical people in every neighborhood who scoff at a home-town paper, and would not subscribe for it under any consideration, and yet these same fellows will run over to their neighbors and borrow the local paper and get their reading for nothing. They are curious to know what is in the paper, even if they claim they have no use for the sheet. And how sore these pesky little fellows are if their name does not get in the paper when they want the public to know something they have accomplished. And another stripe is the fellow who wants you to run some free advertising, but says: "I don't think I want the paper any longer." The paper is good enough for free advertising for these birds, but not good enough to subscribe for. Well, it is lucky for the country editor that he gets along fine without this class of people.

The News-Bulletin is adding more territory, and more news matter will be added shortly. The News-Bulletin is going to get more interesting as various plans now in the making are fulfilled. The subscription price has been reduced to $1.25 per year, and everyone can afford this much money to get the paper for a whole year. Subscribe now, if not already a subscriber. The News-Bulletin is going to observe "Subscribe For Your Home Town Paper" week from November 7th to 12th. Watch for further announcements.

EXPENSES INCREASE SAYS ILLINOIS BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

Answering Commerce Commission's Citation To Show Cause Why Rates Should Not Be Reduced

Operating expenses of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company have increased since the public utilities commission authorized an increase in rates last December, was the answer filed by the telephone company to the citation of the Illinois Commerce Commission to show cause why the rates should not be reduced.

In another part of the answer the company questioned the method of procedure adopted by the commission in issuing this citation and asks that the citation be dismissed, but stated that it will co-operate with the commission in any proper proceeding brought under the Illinois law.

The answer said that the present rates, effective January 1, 1921, were authorized and approved as just and reasonable by the public utilities commission December 20, 1920, after an eighteen months' investigation conducted by the commission and that its order has never been reversed and still stands. It also was explained in the answer that the company had filed with the commission monthly reports of revenue and expenses since January 1, 1921, when the present rates became effective.

Want New Pipe Organ In Frank- fort Ev. Church

A movement is on foot to raise a fund with which to purchase a large, fine, new, up-to-date pipe organ for the St. Peter's Evangelical church. Some of the enterprising members feel that, as long as they have such a beautiful church, they ought to have a fine pipe organ to go with it, as the musical part of the service is an important factor in church worship. Some members have already hinted that they would be willing to give liberal donations.

Work on the new residence of Fred Heusner is progressing nicely.

Miss Lizzie Leppla is selling out her deceased brother's shoe shop. She is selling all the shoe stock at a greatly reduced price. Thus far no shoemaker has located here, altho several have looked over the field.

Mrs. Henry Koener visited in Chicago Monday.

The Harvest picnic held at the Borman grove, last Saturday, by the Frankfort Industrial club, was very largely attended. The business houses remained closed for half a day.

The Lincoln Highway concrete work has been held up by wet weather. At present the concrete has been laid as far as the Owen hill. The last pier has been built on the bridge spans near Hickory creek, east of here. The pier had to be built 22 feet below the surface of the creek bed in order to strike rock.

Mrs. Conrad Sippel, residing in the south part of the village, was stricken with a slight paralytic stroke, Saturday evening, while at the supper table.

Recently tourists told a story of a bold daylight holdup. The tourists came from Indiana and stopped at the Heusner, Mager & Geuther garage. They said they met another car coming on a country road in Indiana, and this car seemed to be in trouble. They drove past, but stopped when the apparently distressed autoists asked them for a wrench. When they stopped their car and started out to hand them the wrench, the "distressed" ones suddenly pulled revolvers and relieved the good Samaritans of all their money, amounting to quite a sum. One of the members of the robbed party belonged to a fraternal order, and managed to get in touch with the nearest lodge and get enough money to carry them on their journey.

Mokena Church Society Holds Rally

A Rally meeting was held last Friday by the I. T. class of the Evangelical Sunday school, with Mrs. H. F. Woodrich as their leader, at the home of Miss Edna Bechstein, secretary of the class. This class has been organized for over a year, and the girls have been enthusiastic workers in the vineyard of the Lord. They have been especially active in bringing cheer and comfort to the sick of our community through flowers, postals, visits, etc., as many a one will testify. There are 12 members at present. The girls and their teacher will heartily welcome anyone who wishes to join the class.

Wm. Lynk has returned from Whitely, Wis., where he had been visiting with the Urch and Brown families, former New Lenox residents.

Miss Minnie Eggers, who has been taking treatments at the Francis Willard hospital, Chicago, returned last week. She is somewhat improved.

No church services will be held at the M. E. church next Sunday on account of Rev. Palmer attending conference. Sunday school will be held at 10:30 a. m.

The Sunday school contest which is now on at the M. E. church is going along at a merry clip. Quite a number of new Sunday school scholars are being added. Sherwin Liess is captain of the Red side, and Harley Gillett is captain of the Blues. The contest is in the nature of a trip to New York. Each new scholar brought in by either side means a credit of a certain number of miles on the trip. The side getting to New York first will be winner.

On the evening of October 30th, at 7:30, a special service will be held at the M. E. church, to be known as "Parents' Day." The Rev. Mr. Palmer will be present and deliver an address in keeping with the occasion. This will be of special interest to parents, and all are invited to attend this service.

Mrs. Kohler has returned from Bloomington, where she attended the funeral of her father, who died a week ago.

CAPTAIN LINCOLN.

Synopsis.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois. At Niagara Falls they meet John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. Sarah's ministrations save the life of Harry Needles and he accompanies the Traylor. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young Abe Lincoln, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim and others. Samson raises his cabin. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Harry strikes up McNeil. Harry is attacked by McNeil and his gang, and Bim drives off his assailants with a shot gun. McNeil is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so. Harry loves Bim. Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis. Ellphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, has his arm broken by Traylor. Biggs meets Bim and makes love to her.

CHAPTER VIII.

Wherein Abe Announces His Purpose to Be a Candidate for the Legislature, at Kelso's Dinner Party.

Harry Needles met Bim Kelso on the road next day, when he was going down to see if there was any mail. She was on her pony. He was in his new suit of clothes—a butternut background striped into large checks. "You look like a walking checker-board," said she.

"This—is my new suit," Harry answered, looking down at it.

"It's a tiresome suit," said she impatiently. "I've been playing checkers all since I caught sight of you, and I've got a man crowned in the king row."

"I thought you'd like it," he answered, quite seriously, and with a look of disappointment. "Say, I've got that razor and I've shaved three times already."

"Don't tell anybody," he warned her. "They'd laugh at me. They wouldn't know how I feel."

"I won't say anything," she answered. "I reckon I ought to tell you that I don't love you—not so much as I did, anyway—not near so much. I only love you just a wee bit now."

Harry's face fell.

"Do you—love—some other man?" he asked.

"Yes—a regular man—mustache, six feet tall and everything. I just tell you he's purty!"

"Is it that rich feller from St. Louis?" he asked.

She nodded and then whispered: "Don't you tell."

The boy's lips trembled when he answered. "I won't tell. But I don't see how you can do it."

"Why?"

"He drinks. He isn't respectable."

"That's a lie," she answered quickly. "I don't care what you say."

Bim touched her pony with the whip and rode away.

Harry staggered for a moment as he went on. His eyes filled with tears. It mole hill in six months. You and I have got things to do, partner. We mustn't let ourselves be fooled. I was once in a boat with old Cap'n Chase on the Illinois river. We had got into the rapids. It was a narrow channel in dangerous water. They had to keep her headed just so or we'd have gone on the rocks. Suddenly a boy dropped his apple overboard and began to holler. He wanted to have the boat stopped. For a minute that boy thought his apple was the biggest thing in the world. We're all a good deal like him. We keep dropping our apples and calling for the boat to stop. Soon we find out that there are many apples in the world as good as that one. You have all come to a stretch of bad water up at your house. The folks have been sick. They're a little lonesome and discouraged. Don't you make it any harder by crying over a lost apple. Ye know it's possible that the apple will float along down into the still water where you can pick it up by and by. The important thing is to keep going ahead."

This bit of fatherly counsel was a help to the boy.

"I've got a book here that I want you to read," Abe went on. "It is the 'Life of Henry Clay.' Take it home and read it carefully and then bring it back and tell me what you think of it. You may be a Henry Clay yourself by and by. The world has something big in it for every one if he can only find it. We're all searching—some for gold and some for fame. I pray God every day that He will help me to find my work—the thing I can do better than anything else—and when it is found help me to do it. I expect it will be a hard and dangerous search and that I shall make mistakes. I expect to drop some apples on my way. They'll look like gold to me, but I'm not going to lose sight of the main purpose."

When Harry got home he found Sarah sewing by the fireside, with Joe and Betsey playing by the bed. Samson had gone to the woods to split rails.

"Any mail?" Sarah asked.

"No mail," he answered.

Sarah went to the window and stood for some minutes looking out at the plain. "It's sure glad," she said, "of the snow, blissed and bent in the wind. In its cheerless winter colors it was a dreary thing to see."

"How I long for home!" she exclaimed, as she resumed her sewing by the fire.

Little Joe came and stood by her knee and gave his oft repeated blessing:

"God help us and make His face to shine upon us."

She kissed him and said: "Dear comforter! It shines upon me every time I hear you say those words."

"Would you mind if I called you mother?" Harry asked.

"I shall be glad to have you do it if it gives you any comfort, Harry," she answered.

She observed that there were tears in his eyes.

"We are all very fond of you," she said, as she bent to her task.

Then the boy told her the history of his morning—the talk with Bim, with the razor omitted from it.

"Well, Harry, if she's such a fool, you're lucky to have found it out so soon," said Sarah. "She does little but ride the pony and play around with a gun. I don't believe she ever spun a hank o' yarn in her life. She'll get her teeth cut by and by."

Then fell a moment of silence. Soon she said:

"There's a bitter wind blowing and there's no hurry about the rails, I guess. You sit here by the fire and read your book this forenoon. Maybe it will help you to find your work."

So it happened that the events of Harry's morning found their place in the diary which Sarah and Samson kept. Long afterward Harry added the sentences about the razor.

One evening Sarah and Samson, with Harry, went to a debate in the tavern on the issues of the day, in which Abe won the praise of all for an able presentation of the claim of Internal Improvements. During that evening Alexander Ferguson declared that he would not cut his hair until Henry Clay became President, the news of which resolution led to a like insanity in others and an age of unexampled hairiness on that part of the border.

For Samson and Sarah the most notable social event of the winter was a chicken dinner at which they and Mr. and Mrs. James Rutledge and Ann and Abe Lincoln and Doctor Allen were the guests of the Kelsoes. That night Harry stayed at home with the children.

Kelso was in his best mood.

"Come," he said, when dinner was ready. "Life is more than friendship. It is partly meat."

"And mostly Kelso," said Doctor Allen.

"Ah, Doctor! Long life has made you as smooth as an old shilling and nimbler than a sixpence," Kelso declared. "And, speaking of life, Aris told me that the learned and the unlearned were as the living and the dead."

"It is true," Abe interposed. "I say it, in spite of the fact that it slays me."

"You? No! You are alive to your finger tips," Kelso answered.

"But I have mastered only eight books," said Abe.

"And one—the book of common sense, and that has wised you," Kelso went on. "Since I came to this country I have learned to beware of the one-book man. There are more living men in America than in any land I have seen. The man who reads one good book thoughtfully is alive and often my master in wit or wisdom. Reading is the gate and thought is the pathway of real life."

"I think that most of the men I know have read the Bible," said Abe.

"A wonderful and a saving fact! It is a sure foundation to build your life upon."

Kelso paused to pour whisky from a jug at his side for those who would take it.

"Let us drink to our friend Abe and his new ambition," he proposed.

"What is it?" Samson asked.

"I am going to try for a seat in the legislature," said Abe.

The toast was drunk, and by some in water, after which Abe said:

"If you have the patience to listen to it, I'd like to read my declaration to the voters of Sangamon county."

"I'd Like to Read My Declaration to the Voters."

Samson's diary briefly describes this appeal as follows:

"He said that he wanted to win the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens. This he hoped to accomplish by doing something which would make him worthy of it. He had been thinking of the county. A railroad would do more for it than anything else, but a railroad would be too costly. The improvement of the Sangamon river was the next best thing. He favored a usury law and said, in view of the talk he had just heard, he was going to favor the improvement and building of schools, so that every one could learn how to read, at least, and learn for himself what is in the Bible and other great books. It was a modest statement and we all liked it."

"Whatever happens to Sangamon, one statement in that platform couldn't be improved," said Kelso.

"What is that?" Abe asked.

"It's the one that says you wish to win the regard of your fellows by serving them."

Early in April an Indian scare spread from the capital to the remotest corners of the state. Black Hawk, with many warriors, had crossed the Mississippi and was moving toward the Rock River country. Governor Reynolds called for volunteers to check the invasion.

Abe, whose address to the voters had been printed in the Sangamon Journal, joined a volunteer company and soon became its captain. On the tenth of April he and Harry Needles left for Richland to go into training. Samson was eager to go, but could not leave his family.

Bim Kelso rode out into the fields where Harry was at work the day before he went away.

"I'm going away," the boy said, in a rather mournful tone.

"I hate to have you go. I just love to know you're here, if I don't see you. Only I wish you was older and knew more."

There was half a moment of silence. She ended it by saying:

"Ann and I are going to the spelling school tonight."

"Can I go with you?"

"Could you stand it to be talked to and scolded by a couple of girls till you didn't care what happened to you?"

"Yes; I've got to be awful careless."

"We'll be all dressed up and ready at quarter of eight. Come to the tavern. I'm going to have supper with Ann. She is just terribly happy. John McNeil has told her that he loves her. It's a secret. Don't you tell."

"I won't. Does she love him?"

"Devotedly; but she wouldn't let him know it—not yet. I reckon he'll be plumb anxious before she owns up. But she truly loves him. She'd die for him."

"Girls are awful curious—nobody can tell what they mean," said Harry.

"Sometimes they don't know what they mean themselves. Often I say something or do something and wonder and wonder what it means. Did you ever ride a horse sitting backwards—when you're going one way and looking another and you don't know what's coming?" she asked.

"What's behind you is before you and the faster you go the more danger you're in?" Harry laughed.

"Isn't that the way we have to travel in this world, whether we're going to love or to mill?" the girl asked, with a sigh. "We cannot tell what is ahead. We see only what is behind us. It is very sad."

Harry looked at Bim. He saw the tragic truth of the words and suddenly her face was like them. Unconsciously in the midst of her playful talk this thing had fallen. He did not know what to make of it.

"I feel sad when I think of Abe," said Harry. "He don't know what is ahead of him, I guess. I heard Mrs. Traylor say that he was in love with Ann."

"I reckon he is, but he don't know how to show it. He's never told her. I reckon he's mighty good, but he don't know how to love a girl. Did you ever see an elephant talking with a cricket?"

"Not as I remember," said Harry.

"I never did myself, but if I did, I'm sure they'd both look very tired. It would be still harder for an elephant to be engaged to a cricket. I don't reckon the elephant's love would fit the cricket or that they'd ever be able to agree on what they'd talk about. It's some that way with Abe and Ann. She is small and spry; he is slow and high. She'd need a ladder to get up to his face, and I just tell you it ain't purty when ye get there. She ain't got a chance to love him."

"I love him," said Harry. "I think he's a wonderful man. I'd fight for him till I died. John McNeil is nothing but a grasshopper compared to him."

"That's about what my father says," Bim answered. "I love Abe, too, and so does Ann, but it ain't the hope to die, marryin' love. It's like a man's love for a man or a woman's love for a woman. John McNeil is handsome—he's just plumb handsome, and smart, too. He's bought a big farm and is going into the grocery business. Mr. Rutledge says he'll be a rich man."

"I shouldn't wonder. Is he going to the spelling school?"

"No, he went off to Richland today with my father to join the company. They're going to fight the Injuns, too."

The shell sounded for dinner. Bim started for the road at a gallop, waving her hand. He unbent his team and followed it slowly across the black furrows toward the barn.

He did not go to the spelling school. Abe came at seven and said that he and Harry would have to walk to Springfield that night and get their equipment and take the stage in the morning. Abe said if they started right away they could get to the Globe tavern by midnight. In the hurry and excitement Harry forgot the spelling school. To Bim it was a tragic thing. Before he went to bed that night he wrote a letter to her.

APRON WORN AS ORNAMENT

Women of Czechoslovakia Don Garment With a View of Attracting Masculine Eyes.

In the villages and country portions of Czechoslovakia the women do not wear aprons as a badge of work. On the contrary the Czechoslovakia maid does not put her apron on when she enters the house—she does it only when she is going out to capture the eye of some swain who long has paid her court. And these aprons usually are heirlooms. Green is the favorite color. Next in popularity come gold or yellow, silver, pink, blue, cerise and flaming rose. Usually the embroideries which display these colors are upon dark foundations. Some, however, are white. In both types gay ribbons sometimes play a part. And often the white mutton sleeves of the waists are gayly embroidered to complete the radiant effect the wearer's apron lends as she strolls down the street or along the country lane.

Their skirts are usually black and always short. Their stockings are for protection in their walks as well as for display. Some have small, bright designs knitted into the dull black. The waist-length jackets they wear are usually quite plain, save for the hand-made lace around the bust and on the sleeves. The head shawls sound the varying color note. But it is in the aprons that the love of color is more clearly shown.

Evil of Discontent.

Discontent is like ink poured into water, which fills the whole fountain full of blackness. It casts a cloud over the mind, and renders it more occupied about the evil which disquiet than about the means of removing it.—Feldham.

JACK FROST.

"The Breeze Brothers," said Daddy, "were taking a nap. Old Mr. Wind was feeling sleepy and it would not take him long to doze off, too, into a Dreamland of his own, where he would dream of gay, wild storms and merry, rushing, exciting races and chases."

"I Look All Right."

hells decorating it:

"I believe I look all right to go a-calling."

"So he put on his long green cap with the pink tassel and the little shining brass bells which tinkled gayly, and set forth."

"There are some creatures," he said to himself, "who like to go a-calling on New Year's day."

"But not Peter Gnome! This is my time of the year. And before long I will want to wish all my friends good-winter."

"So many of them sleep all through the winter, so it is best to say good-winter rather than good-night. We all feel that way about it."

"As he was talking to himself he felt a very cold wave of air pass over his face. Almost, it was as though some one were trying to speak to him and as though a cold breath of air was blown forth with every word."

"Peter Gnome looked all about him, but could see no one. Then he heard some laughter, and as he heard it he shivered, for it made him feel so chilly."

"Don't you see us?" asked a voice.

"And, turning around, Peter Gnome saw Jack Frost and his brothers."

"What are you up to now?" asked Peter Gnome.

"And then he added:

"The same old tricks, I suppose?"

"Ah, yes," chuckled Jack Frost.

"He wore a suit which was made of autumn leaves. His face was very ruddy and his eyes very blue and twinkling. Each time he spoke cold air blew from his mouth and went curling about in the air until it landed on some flower or shrub, which instantly shriveled up with the cold."

"The Autumn Paint club is all ready for its great exhibition," Jack Frost continued. "We have our magic paintbrushes with us."

"Some of us will go to the windows, and will paint castles and courtyards and knights and ladies and princes and princesses."

"Others will go to the trees, and give them more color. We'll add a dash of red here and a touch of orange there and a bit of autumn golden paint on another, and so on."

"Some will visit the flowers, and will tell them our chilly secrets."

"The flowers don't want to listen to us. There are the stubborn little Johnny-Jump-Ups, who pay no attention to us at all, and a few others like them."

"But most of them can't help but pay attention and as they are listening to us we give them our frosty kisses."

"Do you think it is kind of you to do that?" asked Peter Gnome.

"Oh, yes," said Jack Frost, waving an arm, for sooner or later Old Man Winter will be along, bringing his whole family with him—Madame Snow and Prince Sleet and Sir Freeze-the-Ponds, the Icicle Girls and his prosperous sons, the Snow-Diamond Jewels boys."

"And he'll bring the Snowflake children, too—such playful little children!"

"Yes, they'll all come, so the flowers might as well begin their sleep a little sooner."

"That is what Jack Frost thinks!"

Parcel Post.

Players sit in a circle. One sits in the center. Each player, except the one in the center, chooses the name of a city he wishes to represent.

Then the one in the center says: "A parcel is being sent from — to —"

As he names the two cities, the players which represent them must jump up and change places. The center player tries to get one of these places. The one who is left without a place sits in the center and is "it."

"I suppose you mean the float?" said the angler. "That only costs about 2d."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. Walker

VOYAGERS OF LIFE.

THE captain who can first find his bearings in the snarling storm at sea, is he who will be first to reach a safe harbor.

And so it is with sailors on the turbulent sea of life, when tempestuous winds blow and adversity comes.

In this sense, we are all captains, each at the wheel of a craft of our own, responsible for its keeping and its guidance to still waters.

Some of us face storms with calmness and abiding faith.

Others miss their bearings, lose courage and through fear, fail to gain control of their ship, which drifts on the rocks a hopeless wreck, with themselves and their crews clinging to broken spars.

These derelicts swarm the city streets, crowd the park benches and crawl at night like hunted things to some wretched attic or dark doorway.

They began their voyage under the soft blue sky and the bright sunlight, with their white sails swelling in friendly breezes, proud and joyous in the glorious vigor of youth, thoughtless of hidden shoals and contrary winds.

They mocked and jeered those who stood at the wheel so soberly, scanning the shifting clouds, watching the "draw" of the sails and the behavior of the craft that in some unaccountable way had become a part of them. At the end of years, when life-skies begin to purple, these sober wheelmen, patient and earnest still, find their way to friendly ports, wearing the smile of triumph.

The other ships, whose captains lacked earnestness, patience and self-reliance, never came back. Their storm-wrecked sailors, picked up here and there, lack incentive to make an other voyage—erring, shiftless and untrue, like their captains.

They are untouched by the radiance of better things.

Opportunity succeeds opportunity, but they shun it.

Hope, they will tell you, is dead, but they decline to tell you that they themselves killed it.

How are you sailing your ship?

Are you devoting to it your full attention, putting into your lifework all the ability, sincerity and energy that you can command?

If you are, there will be no park benches and wretched attics awaiting you at the end of your voyage, but in their stead there will be the sweet consciousness of a well won reward, the blessing of an uncomplaining soul and these mean true and abiding happiness whatever your surroundings.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

CO-OPERATIVE CLASSES

AN INTERESTING plan has been worked out by a certain high school in its commercial department. This is a co-operative method by which the girl students get actual practical work together with the class work.

For instance, in the salesmanship course the girls work one week in school and one week in some large department store alternately. The stores are making their inducements to young women who wish to become saleswomen more attractive, and they are seeking a high class of employees. And it is the girls who have taken a course of training with the view of becoming expert in the profession who are sought for. They begin at the bottom, while they are still working in the school, and by the time they have been graduated they are ready for a good position with every prospect of steady advancement.

The complete course includes designing, color matching, house furnishing, etc. A girl will specialize later in certain types of the work, but she is given a grounding in all. If she has a good foundation she is going to know what to sell her customers. She is unlikely to make bad sales, and so suffer returns.

With such school work and such training as are offered by the type of high schools quoted, a fine class of women is going to be attracted to the work in increasing numbers. The stores realize the value of the expert. It is a thing that will pay looking into by the ambitious business girl.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"LOVELY."

"DID you enjoy the play?" "Yes, I had a lovely time." The person who used the word "lovely" in this sense did not know, or forgot, that "lovely" should be used only to describe something which is adapted to or worthy of being loved—that is, of inspiring the highest esteem of which the human being is capable. The word "lovely" means, according to the Standard dictionary, "possessing mental or physical qualities that inspire admiration or love; winsome, charming, lovable, as 'a lovely face.'"

The word "lovely" has, therefore, a distinct and valuable place in English diction, and should not be debased by use in connection with common or ordinary matters, or trifles. Instead of "lovely," in most cases some such words as attractive, agreeable, pleasant, enjoyable should be employed. Here is correct use of "lovely": "She's adorned amply that in her husband's eye she looks lovely."

SCHOOL DAYSLYRICS OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

HEART WEATHER.

SKIES are not always amethyst. And stars are lost in midnight mist.

The sun is curtained by the rain. Day has its darkness, night its pain; And yet the hill the sun has kissed And I know shall feel his kiss again.

We do not ask perfection of The earth below, the skies above; They have their moments that are drear. And winter comes to every year— We ask it but of those we love, Perfection only of the dear.

Hearts have their weather, every heart—

We do not live with perfect art. Hearts have their time the thunders roll.

Their little tempests of the soul. But soon the tempest shall depart And leave affection's aureole.

You who are patient with the skies When suns go down and storms arise, Be patient in the time of stress, The tempest meet with tenderness. Love must be patient, must be wise— The sun obscured shines none the less.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

Make my mortal dreams come true With the work I fain would do; Clothe with life the weak intent; Let me be the thing I meant.

THE WHOLESOME CUSTARD.

CUSTARDS of different flavors are always good desserts for the children and are usually well liked by them. One egg to a cupful of milk and two tablespoonfuls of sugar or less will make a thin custard which will be sufficient for two small cups. If the custard is desired thicker, two eggs to one cupful of milk will make a custard which will mold. Of course, when food value is considered, the more egg the more nutriment.

Cup custards are more attractive in appearance if decorated in some form. A dot of jelly or jelly cut in cubes, a candied cranberry or cherry, or any bright preserved fruit is always festive, and a spoonful of nuts adds to its food value.

Care should be taken in the preparation of a custard. If baked, place the custards in a dish of water and watch carefully not to overbake as they become coarse and tough. A baked custard has a finer flavor than boiled, and is particularly good with tart berries.

Nutmeg, cinnamon, orange rind, lemon, maple or caramel are all good flavors, as well as chocolate and cocoa. (Chocolate grated over the top, or cocoa sprinkled lightly over the custards adds to its food value. A pinch of salt is needed in all custards, otherwise they are flat in taste. An orange flavored custard is delicious, served with a spoonful of orange marmalade on top.

Caramel Custard.

Put one-half cupful of sugar in an omelet pan and stir well while melting; when a golden brown add one quart of boiling hot milk, adding very carefully a little at a time, when the caramel is all dissolved and mixed with the milk add five slightly beaten eggs, a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of vanilla and strain into a mold. Chill and serve with a caramel sauce. Four eggs will make a rich custard, but not so well to mold.

HOW WOMEN AVOID SURGICAL OPERATIONS

Some Are Extremely Necessary, Others May Not Be

Every Woman Should Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Trial First

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter."—Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6824 St. Lawrence Ave., Chicago, Ill.

A Vermont woman adds her testimony to the long line of those fortunate women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after it had been decided an operation was necessary:

Burlington, Vt.—"I suffered with female trouble, and had a number of doctors who said that I would never be any better until I had an operation. I was so bad I could hardly walk across the floor and could not do a thing. My sister-in-law induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it certainly has helped me wonderfully. I keep house and do my work and have a small child. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to a number of my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. H. R. SHARON, Apple Tree Point Farm, Burlington, Vt.

In hospitals are many women who are there for surgical operations, and there is nothing a woman dreads more than the thought of an operation, and the long weary months of recovery and restoration to strength if it is successful.

It is very true that female troubles may through neglect reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. In fact, many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Failure of the voters to approve at the polls a proposition to issue $100,000 worth of bonds to complete the county jail at Moline has forced a new problem for the board of supervisors. The old jail repeatedly has been condemned as being insanitary and unless the new jail is completed the authorities may be forced to transfer all prisoners to the jails of adjacent counties, this program to be maintained until the voters are in a mood to vote money for the completion of the new structure.

Luther Burbank's rival in plant experimenting is E. H. Riehl of Alton, who has made a number of successful ventures in propagating new fruits. He has received word from the plant industry department of Washington, D. C., that a plant expert will visit him and see the new everbearing blackberries with which he is experimenting. He also has everbearing strawberries of fine flavor and likewise raspberries. His combination of peach and apricot is said to vie with that propagated by Luther Burbank.

Referring to the state tax commission's recent demand upon boards of review in 25 counties for assessment lists, Oscar E. Carlstrom, a member of the commission, declared in an address before the state convention of county clerks, circuit clerks and recorders at Alton that the order was given in order to obtain definite information to use in checking on figures from a few counties in which the commission had been informed fair assessments on capital stocks of banks had not been made. Commissioner Carlstrom also said that there would be no great increase in the state tax rate for the present two-year period.

Highest salaries paid Illinois school teachers since the war have been given in Lake county, just north of Cook, according to reports from 70 county school superintendents received by Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction. On the other hand, Pope county teachers have been the poorest paid for the last two years. Wayne county was low three years ago. Lake county last year paid its teachers an average annual salary of $1,427. The average in Pope county was $490. Extending over the three years school teachers throughout the state received salary increases ranging from 16.7 per cent in DeWitt county to 87.3 in Stark county. The greatest increase for the year was in Cumberland county, where teachers received an average increase of 65.4 per cent over the year before. This jump was made from a 7.6 per cent reduction in that county for the years 1919-20.

While plowing in his field one mile north of Normal, Charles Anderson unearthed bills, coins and bonds to the value of $35,000. New Lenox Boy Shot While Hunting

While Clyde Batson was hunting, last Friday, he had the misfortune to shoot his foot. He was walking along thru the woods carrying his gun down by his side, when some way the trigger was pulled, and as the point of the gun was near his foot, he received quite a painful injury there. He was taken to Silver Cross hospital, and there it was found some bones were fractured. A few days later he was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Lucille Drake, in New Lenox.

Moonshine is raising mischief the country over, and New Lenox is also getting a taste of it. Residents are complaining that a rowdy element from Joliet is making weekly visits here, and they bring big cargoes of booze with them, it is charged. Empty bottles by the basketful are found after a wild night. Just recently three fellows were seen to hide a few bottles of moonshine back of a billboard near the Rock Island depot. At a late hour they got the bottles out and drank. A short time later they were all drunk. One fellow fell over and could not get on his feet. Later he managed to get into the Rock Island depot waiting room, and made a terrible mess of things. It is a shame and disgrace to the village that such characters are coming here. New Lenox has always been known as a beautiful, quiet village, and now the rowdy moonshine element is invading the once quiet hamlet. If the moonshine imbibers only got drunk, it might not be quite so bad, but they use profane and obscene language at all hours of the night in front of private homes, and the New Lenox citizens are not going to stand for this kind of deportment very much longer.

The editor of the News-Bulletin is in receipt of an interesting letter from E. J. Sass, of Blakely, Minnesota, former New Lenox resident. Mr. Sass writes in part as follows:

"Enclosed please find one dollar for one year's subscription to the News-Bulletin. We are all well and enjoy fine fall weather. Everything is looking fine and we have a bumper corn crop. We like it fine here and are all gaining in weight. Please send more New Lenox news, as we certainly enjoy reading home news. Hoping that we will soon see a long New Lenox column every week.

Yours truly, E. J. SASS."

Red Cross Trains 147 Blind Vets In Useful Work

Training designed to fit them for the battle of life was taken by 147 blind ex-service men at the Red Cross Institute for the Blind, near Baltimore, Md., during the fiscal year 1920-1921, according to the report of the Institute for that period.

Of this number, 19 have gone on to other institutions, in almost every case to institutions where those having sight are receiving advanced education. The blind ex-service men who have entered such institutions are provided with special text-books in Braille, reading which they were taught at the Red Cross Institute.

Twelve men have passed from the Institute to successfully carry on some occupation or business for which they were fitted by special training. A few have withdrawn from the Institute because of poor physical condition, 14 are receiving further training on the job and 87 are still in training.

Red Cross Plans $6,000,000 Effort To Save Children

Medical care and clothing for thousands of children in Central and Eastern Europe are outlined as the activities of the American Red Cross in Europe for the current year, says a statement on the eve of the Annual Roll Call of the organization. These activities, supplemental to the feeding operations of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, are designed to provide the most adequate and balanced relief within the resources of private philanthropy.

Through the establishment of child welfare stations in the centers of population of those countries where adequate medical care is not now obtainable, the American Red Cross plans to provide the medical assistance needed to restore these children to a normally healthy life. The sum of $6,000,000 has been made available for this work.

Orland Park

An effort is being made to better the train service to the city by providing a train leaving Orland Park about 11:30 a. m. At present there is no train going north between 8:35 a. m. and 1:35 p. m. Commuters in favor of this could help by addressing a letter to Wabash railroad, care of A. C. Kay, agent.

There has been nothing done in connection with the extension of the water main along Orland ave. Both the Lutheran church and the School Board are demanding it. Ald. Loeb has been authorized to get figures on the cost.

Recent rains have proven that the road oiling done by some of the progressive citizens last summer not only keeps down the dust in the summer, but prevents the road from being muddy after a storm. Orland Park should have more oiled roads next year.

People have been wondering why the crossing from the depot has not been repaired. It is Wabash "red tape" that is holding it up.

An Educational Meeting was held last Wednesday evening. The school furnished the entertainment. The plans for the new school were on exhibition and received many favorable comments.

That Orland Park is prosperous is shown by the many garages built in the past few weeks. There is also considerable building activity in the new subdivision to the west of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGregor of Chicago, Geo. McGregor and Mrs. Mary Laige of Auburn, New York, are visiting at the Russell Myrick home.

Elmer Halberg and Prof. Noddler were entertained Sunday at the Beagley home. Mr. Halberg took charge of the Sunday evening services. He will also take charge of next Sunday's services, morning and evening.

Edward Jackson of Lafayette, Ind., visited last week with his daughter, Mrs. Lenard Kay.

Lenard Kay is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Driver of Chicago spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cooper.

John Gee is staying with his sister, Mrs. Petersen of Chicago, where he is taking treatment from a doctor. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

We wish to thank our kind relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness which they showed us in the illness and bereavement of our dear wife and mother.

Report of the Sunday school for first year:

The pupils attending one year without missing a Sunday are as follows: Mabel, Hazel and Ethel Rust, Everett, Howard and Willard Creer, and Jackie Kramer. John Loeb and Wm. Beagley, one Sunday. Those not missing last quarter are as follows: Mabel, Hazel and Ethel Rust, Howard, Willard and Everett Creer, Jake Kramer, Larson Kay, Roy Cannon, Pearl Cooper, Mr. Beagley, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Cooper, Mrs. Kramer, Mrs. Jas. Cannon, George and Ralph Agate, Helen Butcher and Clarence Beagley. Collection for first quarter, $29.19; second quarter, $35.81; third quarter, $46.10; fourth quarter, $41.74; total amount, $152.65. Expenses, $139.76. Credited in bank; $33.89.

Highest attendance was in April, 130. Lowest attendance a week ago last Sunday, 42. Average attendance for the year was 69.

Another Theory of the Flood. A new theory of the flood has been discovered in South Africa. Hydrographers investigating the waterways of Uganda have found indications that Lake Victoria and other central African lakes were at one time vast inland seas, which a little excess of rainfall would cause to overflow into the lands to the north. The discovery of primitive stone implements along the old water levels prove these to have been within the "human" period.

RED CROSS GIVES ANNUAL BUDGET

$19,361,657 Allotted for Current Program of Relief and Service.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Medical Aid for European Children Will Cost $6,000,000 This Year.

Washington.—Expenditures totalling $19,361,657 for carrying through its program of relief and service in the United States and overseas are outlined in the budget of the American Red Cross for the current fiscal year. This total is more than $5,000,000 lower than the expenditure during the last fiscal year, when the disbursements reached $24,402,741. It is announced at National Headquarters in a statement calling attention to the necessity of continued support of the organization by response to the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, if the vital work of the society is to be effectively carried on.

Outstanding among the items of the domestic budget is the appropriation of $3,000,000 for work in behalf of the disabled ex-service man and his family. This appropriation represents the amount allotted to this work from National Headquarters only and does not take into consideration the millions being spent in chapters for relief of the World War veteran. It is in the chapter that the greater amount is spent in meeting this obligation of the Red Cross, the announcement continues, as manifested by figures of the fiscal year 1920-1921 when the total was approximately $3,000,000, of which $2,000,000 represented the disbursement of National Headquarters while the remainder was the chapters' contribution to this field of Red Cross service.

Vast Work for Disabled

Chief among the sub-divisions of the appropriation for work with veterans is that which concerns itself with assistance to disabled men and women in government hospitals. This item of $1,700,000, an increase of more than $500,000 over the appropriation for the same work in last year's budget, will provide these personal services for the disabled and their families which are indispensable to supplement those provided by the government. The director of the Veterans' Bureau has recently expressed his desire that the Red Cross should continue and extend these "humanizing services." Other items of the appropriation for veterans' relief are proportionately increased. An additional appropriation of $400,000 has been made for Red Cross work in connection with regular Army and Navy hospitals and with the regular Army and Navy.

For disaster relief, the Red Cross has set aside for the current twelve months an appropriation of $543,976, virtually doubling the appropriation for the same purpose for the fiscal year 1920-1921.

More than $2,000,000 is provided for service and assistance to the 3,600 Red Cross chapters by the national organization.

Helping Distressed Children

Other items of the domestic budget include $308,516 for miscellaneous activities, including contributions restricted for special purposes and $165,000 for management. Each of these items represents large reductions over similar appropriations of the previous year.

From a fund of $10,000,000, $5,000,000 of which was contributed through the European Relief Council campaign and $5,000,000 allotted by the Red Cross for child welfare work in Europe, there remains $8,765,198 still available, of which it is estimated that $3,000,000 will be required for this work during the current year. For Red Cross participation in the joint effort to relieve famine conditions in Russia, for final work in the China famine, for Junior Red Cross and other overseas activities including the closing of the old general relief program in Europe $4,973,090 is made available.

In announcing the national budget, the Red Cross makes it clear that the figures do not include chapter expenditures or place any cash estimate on the invaluable service of volunteers in chapters.

Arrow Deadly as Bullet.
A mounted Indian or white man with bow and arrows sometimes could kill more buffalo than a man could kill with a rifle, says the American Forestry Magazine. At close range the arrow was as deadly as the bullet. It made less noise, and arrows could be discharged three or four times as rapidly as bullets from muzzle-loading guns.

TINLEY PARK DEFEATS FAST FRANKFORT TEAM WITH 3-0 SCORE

The baseball tournament scheduled to be played at Monee, Sunday, October 2, was postponed to Sunday, October 9, on account of rain. The only ball game last Sunday was played at Frankfort between the Frankfort and the United Bull Frogs, who won the first tournament by defeating Orland and Monee four weeks ago last Sunday.

Both Frankfort and the United Bull Frogs were greatly strengthened for the game. Frankfort's mainstay was "Link" Bailey, formerly of the Chicago, Brooklyn and St. Louis National league teams, but he was unable to stop the strong lineup on the field by the United Bull Frogs. Other than winning the ball game, the United Bull Frogs won the honor of defeating all the ball teams in the country around Tinley Park. From the start of the season early last spring, the United Bull Frogs have had a winning team on the field, defeating teams from Chicago, Blue Island, Joliet and the smaller towns between Chicago and Joliet.

Don't forget the tournament to be held at Monee, Sunday, October 9. The United Bull Frogs and Frankfort expect to have the same lineups on the field. Following is the box score:

The new fuel saving device, in which George Lorenz is interested, is proving a great success. A large number of orders are being received daily. The service is being installed in Schmitt Bros. department store at Blue Island. This firm burns a car and a half of coal each season, and by installing the new fuel saver, it is estimated that a half a carload of coal will be saved. The government has recognized the practicability of the device, and has offered the inventor $30,000, which offer he rejected.

Chair Silencers.
In rooms where the floor is not covered with a soft carpet the moving of chairs is often the cause of a good deal of noise. The trouble may be remedied in this way: From thick felt cut small rounds to glue on to the feet of the chairs. These can be secured from an old hat or cut from an odd piece of floor covering. The chairs can then be moved about quietly even on the hardest floors.

Mokena Resident, Aged 90, Seriously Ill

Erhardt Oswald, Sr., aged 90 years, pioneer resident of Mokena, is critically ill. No hopes are held out for his recovery.

The Mokena Home Improvement Club met last Thursday with Mrs. E. P. Krapp. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. call. The club is growing, and much interest is being shown in the meetings.

The annual Mission Fest, held at St. John Evangelical church, Sunday, was very largely attended. Three services were held. Rev. G. Lambrecht of Frankfort, preached in the morning; Rev. Red Cross Gives $310,000 to Aid 'Clean-Up' Drive

An appropriation of $310,000 for Red Cross work in connection with the "clean-up" campaign instituted by the Government to bring the claims of all disabled service men who are entitled to Federal aid before the proper government bureau for action, has been made by the American Red Cross. The Executive Committee of the American Red Cross in making the appropriation authorized the appropriation of $35,000 of this sum to the American Legion to defray the expense of the Legion representatives assigned to the various districts of the Veterans Bureau.

The remainder of the appropriation was authorized for apportionment among the several Divisions of the Red Cross for carrying on that part of the "clean-up" work that falls directly upon the Red Cross organization.

Young America Sends Vast Relief To Needy Abroad

Various relief projects of the Junior American Red Cross in European countries resulted in helping 237,000 destitute children during the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of the American Red Cross for that period. The growth of the activities of the Juniors abroad is manifested by a comparison which shows this figure is 200,000 larger than that of the previous fiscal year.

The National Children's Fund raised by school children, members of the Junior American Red Cross, was drawn upon for $420,557 for these projects. Receipts for the National Children's Fund during the last fiscal year totalled $155,317.

Food, clothing and medical relief costing $700,000 has been provided by the American Red Cross for the thousands of Russian refugees stranded last year in Constantinople and vicinity.

Builds Up Its Machinery
In connection with the administration of disaster relief measures, an increasing effectiveness on the part of the Red Cross to deal with emergencies was manifested during the past year. In 323 Chapters of the American Red Cross there have been formed special committees to survey the resources of their respective communities and to be prepared in case of disaster. In others of the 3,402 active Chapters, a network of communication has been formed through which instantaneous relief may be dispatched to any part of the United States.

That its work in this field may be continued with ever greater effectiveness, the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during its Annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from November 11 to 24.

LIFE SAVING CORPS ENROLLMENT 10,000

Growth of Red Cross Life Saving Corps throughout the country continued unabated during the last fiscal year, a summary of the year's achievements by that Red Cross Service shows. There are now 100 Corps with a total membership of more than 10,000 members, of which 1,276 are sufficiently skilled in the work to act as examiners. Among the outstanding achievements of the Red Cross in this field during the last year was the organization at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, of what is perhaps the largest life saving corps in the world.

Invaluable Coating for Tubes.
In the process of J. Marcunson, a resinous coating is given tubes or hollow bodies of cement, concrete or mortar by action of formaldehyde on phenols or other like compounds. The coating gradually becomes insoluble on exposure to air and is thus given resistance to the action of mineral or fatty oils.

St. Swithin Myth Disproved.
A record was kept from 1840 for twenty years for the purpose of testing the truth of the popular belief that if rain fell on St. Swithin's day it would rain for forty days after. The result of this test shows that the greatest number of rainy days had occurred in these two decades in years when St. Swithin's day was dry.

Indians Have Curious Numeration.
The Indians of Guiana have a curious system of numeration. They count by the hand and its four fingers. Thus, when they reach five, instead of saying so, they call it a "hand." Six is therefore a "hand and first finger"; seven, a "hand and second finger." Ten is "two hands." But 20, instead of being "four hands," is a "man." Forty is "two men," and thus they go on by twos. Forty-six is expressed as "two men, a hand and first finger."

The Spring Thaw

[National Crop Improvement Service.]
There is one great subject upon which the commercial clubs in the towns and the farm bureaus in the country, may well unite. In the old-fashioned days it seemed that winter generally came to stay and we had only one spring thaw; but of recent years winter is very intermittent and we are likely to have a spring thaw every other week.

Every time one of these thaws occurs, it puts business on the hummer. Farmers cannot get to town and merchants cannot send out goods on telephone orders.

In the old days the farmers became reconciled to this condition and like the old man who, when asked to shovel the snow off his sidewalk, he replied: "Well, the Almighty put it there and He kin take it off again."

The upheaval of frost is the concrete road's worst enemy. Both sides of the road rise with the frost in the fall and lower with the thaw in the spring or want is worse, if it freezes one week and thaws the next, this motion will soon break any concrete road unless it is re-enforced with steel fabric.

Steel re-enforcement unites with the concrete, the two practically expanding and contracting equally.

Prof. Duffy Abrams, in charge of structural research work at Lewis Institute, Chicago, claims that the older a concrete road is, the better it is, and he gives figures to substantiate his statement. The main reasons why a concrete road will break up under stress are because the foundation has not been properly laid; the sand and gravel were not properly cleaned, therefore cannot unite closely with the cement; the slab has been too thin and, perhaps greater than all, the concrete was not properly re-enforced with steel.

Professor Abrams says: "Concrete in roads does not deteriorate in strength with age."

Nuts in Immense Quantities.

On the north coast of Guatemala 60,000 tons of cohune nuts are said to be available for exportation annually, and with an expenditure of $10,000 for highway improvement this quantity could probably be increased to 100,000 tons per annum. On the Pacific or south coast the yield of cozo nuts, it is estimated, could easily be increased to 200,000 tons per annum. There is a supply of cheap labor in this southern region.

Shell-Cracking Bird.

Certain species of birds which inhabit eastern Africa possess the largest and strongest beaks known to ornithologists. One of these is the open-bill or shell bird. It is a long-legged, stork-like bird, which has a beak like a nut-cracker. The parts of the bill cannot be closed in the middle. It eats frogs and fishes, but its favorite food is fresh water molluscs, the shells of which it can crush with the powerful beak.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SCOUTING IN FRANCE.

Scouting is being used as a means of restoring the physical and mental balance of the boys and young men of the devastated area in the department of the Alsne.

Lorne W. Barclay, educational director of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America, is in France on special leave of absence from duty in America in order that, as the United States representative of scouting, he may devote his whole time to the direction of scouting in France in conjunction and co-operation with the American Committee for Devastated France.

Last year Mrs. A. Murray Dike and Miss Anne Morgan made an investigation as to the status and conditions of boy life and found that not only were the boys undernourished and undersized, but that, as a result of the war strain, they were in a highly nervous state. Co-ordination was lacking to such a degree as to make efficient development of young man power almost impossible.

Various efforts were made to counteract this by regular physical exercises, calisthenics, gymnastics and games, with little result.

The mind of the boy was not distracted from his surroundings, which were all reminiscent of war, for a long enough period to obtain any lasting benefit.

In desperation, Miss Morgan appealed to the Boy Scouts of America. As a result, Mr. Barclay went over last summer to conduct an experimental camp. This was so successful that plans were immediately made to open several camps in the summer of 1921, if finances could be secured.

Boy scouts throughout the country were asked to contribute $25, the cost of two weeks' camp trip for one French boy. This purchase his equipment and uniform, transports him to camp and home again. Far more important, it fits him to organize scouting in his own community, and gives him an even finer conception of patriotism and courage.

Boys are assigned as special guests of the troop or individual who finance them, pictures are exchanged and letters written—all this paving the way to a stronger international friendship and understanding.

The secretary of the American Committee for Devastated France reports $3,037, received up to date. It is hoped that by October the first sufficient money will be in hand to defray all the expenses of the two camps, one at La Croix St. Owen, near Compeigne, and one at Corcy.

The mayor of Compeigne made a special call recently upon the officers of the boy scouts and the American Committee for Devastated France to express in person the thanks of his people: "It is the best, the most desirable, in fact, its is an effort unique, accomplishing for France, that fineness of physique, that strength of young manhood which she so surely needs and which is so impossible for her to evolve for herself at the present time. In her name I have the honor to thank the members of the Comité American des Regions Devastees and the Boy Scouts of America."

CALL ATTENTION TO SCOUT HERO.

The story has more than once been told of that gallant Oakland (Cal.) boy scout, Allen Daffett, who gave his life to save his younger brother's last spring and died saying: "I could do nothing else. I am a boy scout." An interesting sequel to this splendid little story of heroism is the fact that the Oakland lodge of Elks, who are tremendously interested in scouting, wrote to their "brother," Warren G. Harding, calling his attention to the lad's noble sacrifice and true scout spirit. The President at once replied thanking the writers for calling his attention to the incident and asking them to convey both his sympathy and congratulations to the bereaved parents.

Just a scout! But his loyal readiness to live up to his scout law and oath to save life even at the cost of his own has won him a place among the heroes of the world.

PERSHING SAYS:

"Boy scouts are not trained particularly to be of use to the military organizations of our country; they are trained primarily and effectively to be good citizens, and that is what we need, above every other thing. If we can inspire in them such ideals as those for which the boy scout movement stands there can be no fear as to America's future."

DEDICATE NEW CLUB HOUSE.

Pasadena (Cal.) scouts recently dedicated their fine new clubhouse presented to them by the Rotary club of the city, with appropriate addresses, music and an exhibition of scout work. The building is a fine one, 60 feet in length, with a 12x60-foot porch. It has beamed ceiling, with special electric lighting and a huge fireplace built entirely of stones from the canyon. The shelf over the fireplace is of redwood and bears the inscription "Do a Good Turn Daily."

STYLES ARE PROMISING FOR AFTERNOON GOWNS

THE modes for fall and winter have been launched and are sailing in definite directions—driven by the winds of popular favor. Discussion of them naturally begins with the silhouette, which remains slender and plainly reveals its descent from classic Greek draperies, or is even more simple and straight. Slenderness continues to be a charm for which every designer strives, excepting when his attention is occupied with evening gowns.

Nearly all afternoon gowns choose the straight line silhouette, the low waistline and often an uneven hem line. Sashes, panels and tunics vary them but do not break their graceful outlines. Supplement materials must be used for them and therefore charmeuse and the several weaves in crepe are in great demand. Duvelty and broadcloth are to be reckoned with and, for the most pretentious among them, there are velvet, brocade and metelasse. These fabrics and the fashionable trimmings would insure the afternoon frock an interesting season, but its greatest ally is the sleeve. Sleeves have taken unto themselves new shapes, new proportions and new trimmings—they are featured as the most important detail in the costume and reach the pinnacle of achievement in afternoon gowns.

Two conservative examples of new models in gowns for afternoon, are illustrated here. They reveal the simplicity in design, for which women have shown a preference, while appropriating new details of decorations and construction in a fine way. The duvelty gown at the right uses novel embroidery with discretion and employs it on the new flaring sleeves and bodice as well as the skirt.

The charmeuse dress at the left approves the uneven hemline in its tunic, but clings to these three-quarter-length sleeves finished with tucks. There is a little definition of the waistline with a sash of the charmeuse finished with handsome tassels. A silk galoon in four rows at the front relieves the plainness of the tunic.

LITTLE NICETIES OF DRESS THAT BESPEAK REFINEMENT

WOMEN are sometimes accused of thinking more about adornment than about clothing—it is no very important matter whether they do or not. There is never a time when they will not run after the small niceties of dress. They have always loved finery; it is an instinct with them, and a charm. Let us hope that none of them will outgrow or outlive it.

The shops are showing many interesting dress accessories, and new embellishments. There is a revival of necklaces and long earrings; metal or other materials in girdles for frocks and coats, to replace those made of fabrics, are featured. Neckwear shows a few new departures in Puritan and other collars of fine embroidery, in scarfs and in vestees or gilets. The favorite neckwear is still the vestee and collar combination as shown in the picture, varied by the introduction of colored organdie in place of white and occasional models in chiffon. But nothing will ever eclipse lace and net—with fine embroideries in these dainty neckpieces.

Bags of heavy silk, crocheted into shape and adorned with steel beads are the ambition of smart women. They are rivaled by handsome ribbon bags with metal or celluloid mountings that are somewhat less expensive but far from inexpensive. But these are among the pretty things that women can make for themselves at a saving. Along with other things Spanish are combs and fans. There is a decided revival in both and this winter may see many treasures in combs, earrings and fans reclaimed from their hiding places.

SEASONABLE IDEAS.

For the waffle lover this will be a piece de resistance, as every one knows how delicious, a tender, crisp waffle is. Never serve a hot sirup with waffles, as it tends to soften and destroy their crispness.

Rich Waffles.—Add the yolks of three eggs to two cupfuls of cream, one-quarter of a cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt. Stir to a smooth batter, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Cook on a hot, well greased waffle iron and sprinkle with powdered sugar before serving.

Butterscotch Sauce.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of browned flour, stir to a paste, then add three-quarters of a cupful of water and cook until smooth like an ordinary sauce. Lastly, add one-quarter of a cupful of molasses, one tablespoonful of vinegar and one cupful of brown sugar, and let boil up once.

Spiced Peaches.—Use seven pounds of fruit to five pounds of sugar, with an ounce each of cinnamon and cloves tied loosely in a small bag; add one pint of water and one pint of vinegar. When boiling hot drop in the peaches. A few at a time, and cook until they are thoroughly scalded. Pour the boiling hot sirup over them after the can is full. Seal as usual.

Preserved Figs.—Where the fresh, ripe fig is to be obtained they make a delicious preserve. Pour three quarts of boiling water over three quarts of figs, which have been sprinkled with one-half cupful of baking soda. Let stand ten minutes, then rinse the figs well with water running through them in a colander. Boil two pounds of sugar in three pints of water ten minutes, add the figs, cover closely and cook slowly until the figs are clear and tender. This may take two hours and the quantity of water should not be allowed to become too much reduced. When the figs are clear, boil down the sirup until heavy. Pour over and seal. The rind of two oranges added to the figs improves the flavor, some think. Spiced figs may be prepared as are spiced peaches.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS.

The following treatment of lamb stew is unusual but worth trying:

Mexican Lamb Stew.—Take a pound of the neck of lamb, cut in small pieces, roll in two tablespoonfuls of flour, brown in one tablespoonful of drippings with one chopped onion. Add three tomatoes, three green peppers; fry all together for a few minutes, then add two quarts of hot water, one tablespoonful of salt and one-fourth of a spoonful of pepper. Simmer one hour, then add one cupful each of green peas, green corn and one-half cupful of rice. Cook until the rice is done. When ready to serve put in the bottom of the serving dish one egg, one teaspoonful of salad oil and one-half teaspoonful of vinegar. Pour the stew over this.

Calves' Liver.—Fry one-fourth of a pound of bacon cut in thin slices until crisp, pouring off the fat occasionally. Remove to a hot platter. Pour hot water over the liver and let stand five minutes, then drain. Roll the liver in one-fourth of a cupful of flour and the same amount of cornmeal well mixed with one teaspoonful of salt. Fry until brown on both sides, using the bacon fat. Add one-fourth cupful of coffee infusion, boiling hot. Cover tightly for a few minutes and serve garnished with bacon.

Mock Venison.—Purchase a five-pound leg of lamb. Wipe it with a damp cloth and lay in a dish of vinegar, adding one onion, six cloves, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of ginger and ten peppercorns. Allow the lamb to remain in the vinegar one day, then turn and leave for the second day. Remove, cover with flour, season and roast in the usual manner. Use the four cupfuls of vinegar.

Meat Balls.—Season two cupfuls of finely chopped cold meat with salt and pepper, minced onion, sage, thyme and lemon juice. Add one cupful of fine soft bread crumbs, one egg and water or stock to moisten. Shape into cakes and fry in beef drippings and lard until well browned on both sides.

Apples With Cinnamon Drops.—Wash and core good flavored apples. Fill the centers with the red cinnamon candies, basting during the baking.

"I'll show you a regular dog," said Gardiner to his friend Johnson, whom he had invited to dinner at his home in Long Island, according to the New York Sun. They had alighted from the train and it was raining. Gardiner gazed up and down the street anxiously.

"What are you looking for?" asked Johnson.

"There!" exclaimed Gardiner, ignoring his friend's question and pointing down the street. "There's a regular dog."

A Belgian police dog came running toward the station with an umbrella in its mouth. The dog stopped in front of Gardiner.

"That's my dog," said Gardiner. "On rainy days my wife gives him an umbrella and he brings it down to the station so I don't have to walk home in the wet."

Salt is what is called "hygroscopic," that is, it eagerly absorbs moisture. In fact, both air and salt are absorbents of moisture and it is a contest between them as to which gets it. Results depend on atmospheric conditions. Ordinary atmosphere always contains a proportion of moisture, and warm air is apt to be more humid than cold, as it absorbs and holds water vapor more readily than cold air. Salt has such affinity for moisture that under such conditions it draws it from the air. When the air becomes dry, the moisture is given up by the salt, which in turn becomes dry as it returns the moisture to the air.

Fundamental Business Principles.
From a purely coldblooded business point of view, honesty is the best policy. To treat the other man as you would have him treat you is an equally fundamental business principle. This does not mean that you should surrender your rights or neglect to avail yourself of your opportunities. It simply means that in the game of business, the same rules of sportsmanship should prevail as in a boxing bout, in a match of golf, or in a football game.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

"Crepuscular" Sun Rays.
The beams of light sometimes seen radiating from the sun when not far from the horizon are called "crepuscular rays." They are due to rays of light passing through breaks in the clouds and made visible by dust or fine drops of water in the air. Their apparent divergence is an effect of perspective. The phenomenon is popularly described as "the sun drawing water"; millers speak of the "sun's backstays." While Homer wrote of the "sun-drenched day."
